California
Other Information
If the lump sum is earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding to a greater degree than the CCPA limitation?	Yes, California limits the withholding to a greater degree than the CCPA limitation on any non-court ordered earnings with-holding order. Except as provided by the court, the maximum withholding is 50% of the net disposable earnings under California Code of Civil Procedure Section 706.052(a). "Net disposable earnings" means earnings that is subject to withholding after making mandatory deductions for taxes including State, federal, local, Social Security, Medicare taxes and union dues, along with deductions for disability insurance and payments to public employees' retirement systems, provided that the deductions are required as a condition of employment. (22 California Code of Regulations Section 110280) Note: A court ordered IWO is limited by Code of Civil Procedure Section 706.052(c) to the limit under Section 1673 of Title 15 of the US Code.
If the lump sum is not earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding/attachment?	If the lump sum does not involve "earnings," then the lump sum would be subject to a 100% levy attachment depending on arrears amount owed. For example, a lump sum involving a civil judgment award not involving earnings would be subject to the maximum 100% attachment. Note: payments to independent contractors are subject to the maximum 50% net disposable earnings withholding limit.

What is the threshold amount for lump sum to be reported?	None
How long must the employer hold the lump sum?	Normal remitting rules apply - Colorado requires that payments be remitted within 7 days from the date of withholding
Is the IWO used for lump sums?	Yes
Are other processes or document(s) used to attach lump sums?	Garnishment
If the lump sum is earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding to a greater degree than the CCPA limitation?	Colorado law relating to maximum child support income withholding (§13-54-104, C.R.S.) exactly copies the CCPA limits: 50% to 65% of disposable earnings based on age of arrears and whether the obligor is supporting other dependents. However, in lump sum payment situations, as a matter of policy, Colorado Division of Child Support Enforcement defaults to the lowest of the maximum limits, 50%, to make the process as easy as possible for employers.
If the lump sum is not earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding/attachment?	Colorado law provides a very broad and comprehensive description of earnings (§13-54-104, C.R.S. and §14-14-102, C.R.S.) so, there is no situation where the lump sum payment paid by an employer would not be considered "earnings" and therefore, the CCPA income withholding limits as reflected in Colorado law always would apply.

Are employers required to report lump sums? Cite the state law for lump sums	No, however if a NCP is going to receive a lump sum, then the income payor is obligated to withhold from the lump sum any child support arrearage. IC 31-16-15-19
What is the threshold amount for lump sum to be reported?	Compliance by employers required for a IV-D case where there is an arrears; lump sums cannot be encumbered if there is no arrears.
How long must the employer hold the lump sum?	N/A
Is the IWO used for lump sums?	Yes
Are other processes or document(s) used to attach lump sums?	Possibly but not necessary for the withholding order
If the lump sum is earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding to a greater degree than the CCPA limitation?	No, our state does not put limitations on the withholding greater than that required by the CCPA limits.
If the lump sum is not earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding/attachment?	If the lump sum is not earnings as defined by the CCPA our state only limits the withholding by the total amount of arrears owed on the case. In other words, the lump sum would be subject to attachment up to the full amount of the arrears on the case.

Other Information
Is there a state definition of a lump sum or bonus?	Yes. "Lump sum payment" means income in the form of commission, an amount paid in lieu of vacation or other leave time, or any other pay. "Lump sum payment" does not include payments made on regular paydays and reimbursement of expenses incurred by the obligor on behalf of the payor paid as severance pay on termination of employment.
Are employers required to report lump sums? Cite the state law for lump sums	Yes. Any employer that has been served an income withholding order which includes an amount to defray arrears must notify the IV-D agency no less than 14 days prior to making the lump sum payment. K.S.A. 23-3104 (g) (g) A payor who has been served an income withholding order by the IV-D agency which includes an amount to defray an arrearage shall contact the IV-D agency no less than 14 days prior to making payment of any lump sum amount to the obligor. The payor may make payment of the lump sum to the obligor once 14 days have passed after providing such contact unless additional process, or notice of intended process, has been received.
What is the threshold amount for lump sum to be reported?	Any lump sum must be reported, regardless of size.
How long must the employer hold the lump sum?	A minimum of 14 days if not challenged. If challenged, must be held until further order of the court.
Is the IWO used for lump sums?	Yes
Are other processes or document(s) used to attach lump sums?	Yes. Garnishments are used to attach non-earning lump sums.
If the lump sum is earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding to a greater degree than the CCPA limitation?	Yes. Kansas limits withholdings on lump sum earnings to 50% of disposable income as that term is defined in the CCPA for all withholdings occurring after July 1, 2013.

Other Information
Is there a state definition of a lump sum or bonus?	Nebraska Revised Statutes do not define lump sum payment.
Are employers required to report lump sums? Cite the state law for lump sums	Nebraska employers are under a duty to furnish information listed in the Nebraska Income of Withholding for Child Support Act set forth in N.R.S. Sec. 43-1719. The County or Authorized Attorney may file an action in the district court to enforce this section. Lump sum payments to obligors may be considered as salaries, wages, benefits, bonuses, and/or advances. Specified fees and costs from expenses drawn upon an account are not considered as wages or salaries.
What is the threshold amount for lump sum to be reported?	There is no minimum threshold amount for an assignment upon wages paid either through a garnishment or a lump sum.
How long must the employer hold the lump sum?	The employer may hold the lump sum for seven days consistent with Sec. 43-1723 (5) before remitting the properly garnished amount to the State Disbursement Unit. Unless the obligor's employer has a reasonable reason to delay said payment. The County or Authorized Attorney may file an action in the district court to enforce this section. Compliance with the Notice of Income Withholding by the employer or payor shall operate as a discharge of the employer's or other payor's liability as to the portion of the obligor's income withheld.
Is the IWO used for lump sums?	Yes
Are other processes or document(s) used to attach lump sums?	A lump sum payment may be enforced through a properly served and perfected Notice of Child Support Lien filed under N.R.S. Section 25-1022-1055.
If the lump sum is earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding to a greater degree than the CCPA limitation?	No
If the lump sum is not earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding/attachment?	Yes, NE applies the CCPA to all lump sum payments although obligor's employers should be aware that if the obligor receives wages in addition to the salary, benefit, bonus, advance amount giving the necessity of lump sum payment, the wages may have satisfied the CCPA.

If the lump sum is earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding to a greater degree than the CCPA limitation?	No
If the lump sum is not earnings as defined by the CCPA, does your state limit the withholding/attachment?	No, Rhode Island's withholding statutes (Title 15 Chapter 16) subjects both types of 'earnings' and 'income,' as defined below to be subject to withholding. (15-16-2(6)(i) and (ii)). Our state law, at 15-16-2(6) subjects all of the defined "earnings" and "income" below to be equally subjected to wage withholding to the extent such "is (not) prohibited by federal law." Thus, the only limitation in Rhode Island is whatever federal law provides. Indeed, 15-16-5(a)(2) specifically provides that withholding shall occur except that "the amounts withheld...may not exceed the limit permitted under (Section) 303(b) of the (federal) Consumer Credit Protection Act, 15 U.S.C. 1673(b)."

Is there a state definition of a lump sum or bonus?	No, however in the state of Tennessee when notified about the issuance of a lump sum payment by an NCPs employer, liens are sent requesting fifty percent of lump sum payment to pay child support arrears.
Are employers required to report lump sums? Cite the state law for lump sums	No, however in the state of Tennessee, State law provides for the additional use of liens on all obligors who are more than thirty days in arrears. T.C.A. 36-5-901(a)(1) states that a lien automatically arises by operation of law against all real and personal property then owned or subsequently acquired by the obligor against whom the lien arises. The amount of the lien is the amount of the overdue child support owed. When notified about the issuance of a lump sum payment to an NCP, a lien is sent to the employer requesting fifty percent of the lump sum or bonus to be paid.
What is the threshold amount for lump sum to be reported?	N/A
How long must the employer hold the lump sum?	Fifteen (15) days is allowed for an appeal of the lien. Collections would immediately disburse according to finding of appeal or expiration of the appeal period.
